PREPARES TO DIE AND TURNS ON GAS

Unidentified Man Ends Life in Avenue Hotel.

SIGNS HIS NAME AS MURPHY

Police Believe False Name Is Used by Stranger, Whose Illness Is Believed to Have Caused His Dependency—Bears Appearance of Refinement—Maid's Discovery.

After carefully preparing himself for death, a young man, registered as James Murphy, committed suicide by inhaling gas yesterday morning at the Majestic Hotel, in Pennsylvania avenue, near Fourth and a-half street.

He had closed and locked the doors, windows, and transoms, and rammed paper into all the crevices. The key was left in the lock.

Chambermaid's Discovery.

The body was found at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The chambermaid, unable to get into the room, called Day Clerk Do-maine. He was unable to overcome with the rush of gas when he opened the door. He summoned a patrolman.

The man was lying on the bed, his arms folded over his breast. His clothes were hung across the foot of the bed.
The police found $17 and a few cents in the clothes, but there was no clew to man's identity—no marks on his clothes.

Name Believed Assumed.

The police believe the name Murphy was an assumed one. He gave no place of residence when he registered, but in conversation with the night clerk mentioned casually that he had been in Philadelphia last week.

He stopped at the hotel Sunday night, but left Monday afternoon. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning he called and registered again, retiring immediately.
He was of medium height, well proportioned, of dark complexion, and smooth shaven. He appeared to be about twenty-two years old, and wore a light two-piece suit.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt decided an inquest unnecessary, and had the body sent to the morgue.

Rev. Compton Ball presided at the meeting, which was attended by more than 100 representatives of the Baptist churches of the city.

Rev. Mr. Leaman will remain as pastor of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, where he has been for the past two years. He will relinquish his duties shortly with the Humane Society.

FOUR BROTHERS AS PRIESTS TO CELEBRATE MASS JOINTLY

An event unique in the history of Washington will take place at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Tennantstown, next Sunday morning, when four brothers, all priests, will celebrate high mass jointly.

The participants will be Rev. Thomas G.
Smyth, of St. Ann's; Rev. James A.
Smyth, of St. Martin's Church, Baltimore, and Rev. John Carter Smyth, of Baltimore, and the Paullist Society.

The latter was ordained last Tuesday by Cardinal Gibbons at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore. He will be stationed in New York. All of the priests were edu-ated at Loyola College, Baltimore, a Jesuit institution corresponding to Gonzaga College here, and all passed through St. Mary's Seminary and were ordained in the Baltimore Cathedral. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Smyth, of Baltimore.

The youngest of them, Rev. John Carter Smyth, celebrated his first mass in St.
Ann's Church, Baltimore, last Sunday morning, with the other three, as well as arch-priest, deacon and subdeacon.
It was the first time in the history of the Baltimore archdiocese that four brothers took part in the one mass as priests.

G. W. U. WILL ASK HELP OF ALUMNI

Appeal Letters to Be Sent Throughout Country.

Thirty-six hundred alumni of George Washington University will be called upon this week to show their loyalty to their alma mater in the present financial crisis.

Individual letters will be sent to every graduate in the country requesting subscriptions. The official subscription blank adopted by the university trustees a few days ago will accompany the letters.

Aldis B. Browne, president of the Alumni Association and a member of the board of trustees, is confident that material aid will be forthcoming from the graduate body.

Will Use Mail.

"We have decided to use the mails instead of calling a mass meeting of the alumni, because better results will be obtainable," Mr. Browne said last night.
"It would be almost impossible to get a large meeting at this time of the year, and it is necessary that the money be raised immediately."

Secretary Hodgkins, of the Alumni Association, was authorized to prepare the letters at a meeting of the alumni committee yesterday. They will be mailed in a few days, the form of appeal being already in the hands of the printers.

POLICEMAN ENDS HIS LIFE

Walter J. Stuart Distracted by Illness and Domestic Troubles.

Fires Two Shots Into Breast and Dies Almost Instantly—On the Force Five Years.

Illness and domestic troubles were responsible for the suicide yesterday morning of Policeman Walter J. Stuart, of the Fourth precinct. He fired two shots into his left breast. Before he could be taken to a hospital he died, without a word to explain his act. He had not lived with his family for several months and had been ill a month.

Leut. Flathers last night denied that Stuart was to be called before the police tribunal, and said that he was held in the highest respect by all the members of the precinct. He had been a member of the force for five years, coming here from Harpers Ferry.

Stuart is survived by his wife and one child, who live at 884 Maryland avenue southwest. A brother is employed at the navy yard, and a sister, Mrs. Robert Watson, resides at 1114 Fifth street northwest. The body, which is now at the family home in Maryland avenue, will be taken to Bolivar, W. Va., to-day at 4 o'clock. The funeral will be held there on Thursday.

KNOX OFF FOR SUMMER.

Forge, Pa., for his summer vacation.
When he left yesterday he arranged to have all important state matters transmitted to him through a special messenger who will keep in close touch throughout the summer with state affairs.

Obsequies to Be at Night.

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan E.
Bates, who died Monday at the home of her son, David H. Bates, 125 Kenyon street northwest, after a lingering illness, will be held to-night at 7:30 o'clock at the residence. The body will later be taken to St. Martin's Creek, Pa.

CITIZENS PROTEST ARMY USE OF PARK

They Declare Island Should Be Public Ground.

TWO TRADE BODIES MAY ACT

William F. Gude Says If Government Takes Reservation It Will Amount to Breach of Faith with Washington—Mr. W. V. Cox Says that the Idea Is Preposterous.

Many of the citizens of Washington are up in arms against the suggested use of Potomac Park as an army infantry post.
They recognize that the suggestion, coming, as it does, from army men, has weight, and they are fearful that this splendid reservation, which has always been talked of as a public park, will be permanently diverted from such use to that of barracks, a parade ground, and other accessories of a military post.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade see special objection to the suggestion of army officers regarding Potomac Park.

William F. Gude, president of the Chamber, said last night he was utterly opposed to the suggestion from every point of view. He declared that the intention of Congress in reclaiming the island known as Potomac Park was to make it a magnificent open space in the middle of the city. There were, therefore, channels, to be devoted forever to public use as a beauty spot for the city, as it should grow bigger and more populous.

Would Deface Island.

"Turning this island into a second Fort Myer," declared Mr. Gude, "would amount to a breach of faith with Washington, and would turn over to the army one reservation of all which in future years would make Washington the delight of the country and the world.
To one who has been in Europe and has seen what has been done in the cities of the Old World in the way of parking small islands in the rivers abutting the big cities must feel a sense of horror at having this beautiful island turned into a military post."

"Potomac Park has great possibilities in the way of beautification. Admitting that under present circumstances it is a little remote from the street car lines, that it is not up to grade, and that it will probably be there unimproved a quarter of a century, still the city will grow to it, and when the time of improvement comes Potomac Park will blossom out naturally into the most attractive place in Washington."

Fine Island Park.

"Lapped by the waters of the river, it will give a fine view of the city and Potomac. Fitted up with driveways and walks, lined with shade trees, adorned with pavilions, and stretching away to the sea wall, with acres of verdant turf, broken here and there with shrubs and flowering plants, there can be no doubt of the ultimate success of the project.
It will be the bridges connecting it with the main land, with statues, arches, perhaps, and works of art here and there. It is the one place in all about Washington which ought to be protected from any use other than that of a public park."

"I cannot find words to express my disapproval of the suggestion made that it be turned into a military post."

Mr. Cox Opposes Suggestion.

William V. Cox, a prominent member of the Board of Trade and its former president, holds similar views to those expressed by Mr. Gude. Mr. Cox said it was a foolish plea for the government to make that it could not afford to buy a place for an infantry barracks, but must take Potomac Park.

"Congress," he said, "and the citizens of Washington have worked many years, first to get the island out of the hands of the army, and then to gradually graduate it along to where it is, and now, as the time approaches for the completion of the work of improving it for public use, comes up this suggestion to turn it to military purposes."

Mr. Cox said the citizens of the city ought to start a campaign against the project that would leave no doubt in the minds of the government that the country that they intend to have Potomac Park as a public breathing space for all time to come.

Similar expressions were heard all about Washington yesterday. Men with military education and leanings were inclined to agree with the army officers that the island was an ideal place for an army post, but many of them were opposed to taking it for the purpose. Business men who had anything to say on the subject were dead against the proposition. It was pointed out that the government had a reservation of two of the most available places near the city for military uses, the war college grounds and Fort Myer, and now if it is to take over Potomac Park, "what will be left to the city near the river?" asked one prominent banker very earnestly.

Suggests Analostan Island.

Thomas Grant, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, came forward with the suggestion that Analostan Island afford far greater advantages for an army post than Potomac Park. He said it was larger, for one thing, was near Fort Myer, and with the possibility of reclaiming land at the lower end, would afford the government a much better place for its army post than the river island ever could.

Mr. Grant thought the government could acquire Analostan Island by condemnation proceedings at a comparatively low price, and that the government officials, as well as the infantry branch of the army, would be much better pleased with the one than the other.

By taking Analostan Park, Mr. Grant said, the government could keep faith with the people of Washington and save Potomac Park as a park, carrying out the original design. He thought that if the same army officers that inspected Potomac Park should find far better suited to their use than the island below.

President Gude and others were not decided yesterday just what steps ought to be taken to nip this unfortunate suggestion, as they termed it. In the head, but they were agreed that such steps ought to be taken, and in due time, probably, the subject will be thrashed out at a meeting of the directors of the Chamber and possibly by those of the Board of Trade, with definite action determined upon to stop the seizure by the army of Potomac Park.
